BLUE RIBBON ART CAMP 2018

Date: Saturday, 17 March 2018 (10 am - 1 pm)

Visual arts like drawing and painting can be healing tools through which people can convey and communicate their thoughts, emotions and experiences. For adults and children with rare diseases, art can serve as a therapeutic medium for expressing their struggles and frustrations while dealing with their diseases and also help with their emotional and psychological healing.

Blue Ribbon Art Camp 2018 has been designed as a patient-centric creative and therapeutic activity for 20 children and young adults (aged 10-20) with rare diseases to explore art and express their lived experiences of their disease. Art Camp facilitator Smt. Ranjana Ramechander is a talented painter whose paintings are with collectors across India, in Dubai, Singapore and other countries. She is also the co-founder of Hemophilia Society, Bangalore Chapter. She will be supported by the Autism and Rare Disease Awareness Generation (ARDA) programme artists and designers at IIACD who have organized workshops for children and young adults and are sensitized to the spectrum of differences in the human body and invisible disabilities faced by rare disease patients.
